Being added to the team as part of the Pinion Advisory merger in early 2022, Adrian has increased our internal IT capabilities as a company. With his background in IT Management and his knowledge of Infrastructure and Networking, Adrian has developed a deployment and implementation framework that is currently being employed.

Given the accelerated growth that Pinion Advisory has seen since inception, and our broad areas of work, Adrian has worked with all business units to streamline the work process, reduce any possible redundancies and increase system productivity.

With the nature of today's cyber-security environment being ever evolving, Adrian's knowledge has been put to good use in increasing our internal capability and project managing ongoing projects to give Pinion Advisory a more robust and reliable network and infrastructure.
